Comments	Since I first started attending Sequoyah School in kindergarten, I've crossed Pasadena Ave. countless times. Whether it was to eat lunch across the street as Sequoyah's Junior High does every week, walk to Old Town from school with friends, or park at Sequoyah's overflow parking lot for special events, I've witnessed a lot in and around the north crosswalk on Pasadena Ave. at California Blvd. I've yelled at cars turning dangerously from California Blvd. onto Pasadena Ave. while students like myself were crossing the street, and seen teachers yelling too. I remember when Sequoyah's High School Director was hit by a car while standing on the corner a few years ago. I remember being pulled out of Musicale (Sequoyah's music talent show) about ten years ago when my mom was hit by a car while walking on the sidewalk down the street. But somehow, despite the already

dangerous conditions for pedestrians on the streets surrounding the school, you're considering adding a second right-turn lane from California Blvd. onto Pasadena Ave, which will only make conditions even more dangerous for students. I know you don't want to be killing students, but this plan looks like a recipe for killing kids.

I consent to have my comment read out loud during the meeting.
