I understand tomorrow night Pasadena Planning Commission is discussing every important issue facing single family neighborhoods. They are discussing Mansionization, RHNA housing allocation and CEQA thresholds. Making decisions one night after a holiday weekend and during COVID is a really bad idea. Public input is being completely ignored. The City seems to be taking advantage of residents being distracted by other issues and trying to bulldoze things through without proper vetting and transparency. Please slow down and get proper input and feedback from the citizens of Pasadena!!

Sincerely,
Marion White, resident and property owner
