To the Planning Commission,

I understand that your Planning Commission meeting tomorrow will cover several critical topics such as Mansionization, RHNA housing allocation and CEQA thresholds.

These are issues that Pasadena residents care deeply about. I am troubled that you are choosing to discuss these topics without much community outreach during this national pandemic when many people are not able to participate in this important conversation and when we do not have access to a transparent decision making process.

Please explain how citizens are able to access this information and participate in this discussion.
