Hello,

I heard that Woon restaurant was planning on opening a new location in Pasadena. As a current resident I think Woon would be a great addition to the food and beverage scene in Pasadena.

I felt Pasadena's food culture was lacking in the past. I felt like I always had to commute a bit west to DTLA or south to Alhambra to grab a really memorable bite. That's quickly changed as of late with spots like Howlin' Ray's, CAR Artisan Chocolate, Mama Lu's, and Mandarin Coffee Stand opening up. These are all great spots and I think Woon opening up would be great for both locals and others who don't want to deal with going through DTLA traffic for a great bite.

I'm not sure what roadblocks there are for the opening, but as far as I'm aware most of the businesses in the area operate primarily during daytime hours. I could be wrong, but parking should not be an issue. In terms of noise, I get that it's generally a pretty quiet area at night. I don't believe that will be an issue because in my experience, the people that frequent and go to Woon are some of the least rowdy people you can find.

Hello- I am emailing you in support of the project MCUP #7138 to allow shared use of two existing surface parking lots to accommodate a new restaurant at 1392 E. Washington Blvd. we support a business / restaurant like Woon in our neighborhood.

Thank you.

I am a Pasadena resident and would love for this family business to be on walking distance. It is simply a great restaurant by great people.

Dear. Mr. Van Patten--

For over a year, I have been waiting for Woon to open in Pasadena. Based on the reviews of my daughter, who lived in Los Angeles, and others, their food is wonderful (certainly worth a trek across the city), but I had been hoping to visit the local establishment that was opening in a matter of weeks or months near Hill and Washington in Pasadena. I even reached out to the restaurant hoping they might have some idea of when they might begin service. I know delays in restaurant permitting are notorious, but I would love to see Woon finally opening its doors in our city after a wait of more than a year. I think the restaurant would make a wonderful addition to Pasadena's culinary offerings (homestyle Chinese, sounds like an important niche to fill).

I am sorry to say I am unable to attend the hearing tomorrow evening because I am taking a course, but I wanted to express my support for the restaurant in writing since I can't be there in person. Thank you.
