KNOW FOR SURE | IF YOUR CHILD IS IN THE RIGHT CAR SEAT

CHOOSING A CAR SEAT

- When it comes to selecting the right car seat for your child, one size does not fit all.
- There are four types of car seats: rear-facing, forward-facing, booster and the standard seat belt.

REAR-FACING CAR SEAT (NEWBORN - 2 YEARS) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Children under two are required by law to be in a rear-facing car seat. There are different types of rear-facing seats: infant-only, convertible and all-in-one. Infant-only is strictly for rear-facing. Convertible and all-in-one seats typically have bigger height and weight limits, allowing you to keep child in a rear-facing seat longer. 	FORWARD-FACING CAR SEAT <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Once your child outgrows the rear-facing car seat, your child is ready to travel in a forward-facing seat with a harness and tether, which limits forward movement during a crash. 	BOOSTER SEAT <ul style="list-style-type: none"> When your child reaches the top height or weight limit in a forward-facing seat, it is time to move up to a booster seat. Keep your child in a booster seat until he or she is big enough to fit in a seat belt properly. 	SEAT BELT (8 YEARS AND UP) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> A properly fitted seat belt must lie across the upper thighs, not the stomach. The shoulder belt should lie across the shoulder and chest. Children 12 and under should always ride in the back seat.
