Author Dr. Steven W. Hackel: Children of Coyote, Missionaries of Saint Francis, Indian-Spanish Relations in Colonial California 1760-1850

Recovering lost voices and exploring issues intimate and institutional, this sweeping examination of Spanish California illuminates the enormous challenges Indians confronted, weaving together analyses of disease and depopulation, marriage and sexuality, crime and punishment, and religious, economic and political change. As colonization reduced their numbers and remade California, Indians congregated in missions, where they forged communities under Franciscan oversight. Yet missions proved disastrously unhealthful and coercive, as Franciscans sought control over Indians' beliefs and instituted unfamiliar systems of labor and punishment. Even so, remnants of Indian groups still survived when Mexican officials ended Franciscan rule in the 1830s. Many regained land and found strength in ancestral cultures that predated the Spaniards' arrival. At this study's heart are the dynamic interactions in and around Mission San Carlos Borromeo between Monterey region Indians (the Children of Coyote) and Spanish missionaries, soldiers and settlers, with an epilogue that carries the story of their survival to the present day.

Born and raised in California, Dr. Hackel earned his B.A. at Stanford University and Ph.D. in American History from Cornell University, with specializations in early America and the American West. Within the larger field of American history, his research specializes in the Spanish Borderlands and the California Missions. His other publications include Father Junípero Serra: California's Founding Father, numerous essays on Native California, an American history textbook, and two edited volumes on early California.
